
PARENT HELP

Background: Mom just really likes to help. You are not the best at writing and after you finish a draft, your mom is happy to help you edit. Sometimes she just sits down at your computer and starts to edit the paper herself. The paper always turns out better that way. She really knows her writing rules (Wangaard 2006).

The Actors: You, your mom, your teacher, other classmates

Stop! Are my emotions in control? Do I have a dilemma? (Describe the problem.)

Think!

What are my choices?	What character traits would be demonstrated?	How does the Golden Rule apply?

Act! What character traits do I choose to demonstrate? What choice will I make?

What supporting character traits or skills will I need to act on my choice? Do I need to ask for help?
