
PLS TBL

Background: Your birthday was great this year. You received a new cell phone with lots of free minutes. You've learned that classmates are using their phones a lot during the school day. During a recent math test a classmate who struggles with his grades texted you requesting test answers for several multiple-choice questions (Wangaard 2006).

The Actors: You, phone classmate, your teacher, other classmates, your parents

Stop! Are my emotions in control? Do I have a dilemma? (Describe the problem.)

Think!

| What are my choices? | What character traits would be demonstrated? | How does the Golden Rule apply? |
|----------------------|--|---------------------------------|
| 1. | | |
| 2. | | |
| 3. | | |
| 4. | | |

Act! What character traits do I choose to demonstrate? What choice will I make?

What supporting character traits or skills will I need to act on my choice? Do I need to ask for help?