

SEARCH INSTITUTE SPEAKERS

“Makes the content come alive.
I could have listened to Erin all day!”

—Administrator, University of Wisconsin

Erin Walsh, M.A.

Thriving in the digital age: tips, tricks, and techniques for parents, schools, and communities!

Erin Walsh, M.A., is a popular, dynamic, knowledgeable speaker on topics related to the media’s impact on children, families, and communities. Erin combines the latest research with warmth, humor, and practical advice. In 2003 she organized a nationwide video game accountability campaign with twenty colleges and universities. Her experience with young people and up-to-date knowledge of youth culture and trends makes her an invaluable translator on issues that often split parents and their kids along a generational divide. Erin has special expertise in a variety of subject areas, including body image and the media, brain development, adolescence and youth development, social media, and video game violence.

Most Requested Topics:

- From Internet Safety to Digital Citizenship: Raising Kids in an Online World
- Say Yes to No: A Parenting Program to Raise Happy Self Reliant Kids
- Raising Kids in an Online World
- Media and Sexuality

Recent Engagements:

- Youth Philanthropy Initiative, Tulsa, OK
- Cargill Corporation, Wayzata, MN
- Saskatoon Teacher’s Association, Saskatoon, SK
- SW Area Multicounty Multitype Interlibrary Exchange, Marshall, MN
- Early Childhood State Conference, Fargo, ND

.....
“She was able to capture a wide audience, applying her message for parents of pre-K to high-school-age children. Erin was great to work with—she went above and beyond our expectations.”

“Erin Walsh is a fantastic speaker She knows her content and delivers it convincingly and tactfully. Her style is dynamic and methodical. The audience found her to be highly engaging.”

.....

SEARCH INSTITUTE Training and Speaking
search-institute.org/training-speaking/keynote | training@search-institute.org
800-294-4322

